

MY EYES MOVE

I HAVE A VOICE
PRESS THE CENTER OF COVER

Pinky-Winky

Dog Book

THIS BOOK BELONGS TO

Address

FROM

Address

THE PINKY WINKY
DOG BOOK

MOVING EYES INVENTED BY
MABEL · HUNT · SLATER

Pat. May 2, 1922

VERSES BY
DOROTHY · WHIPPLE · FRY

ILLUSTRATED BY
L. J. BRIDGMAN

Copyright 1924.
MARKS BROTHERS CO.

THE NICEST PUP.

It isn't every little child
Who owns a dog like me,
A puppy of such talents and
Of such a high degree.

For I can talk and wink my eyes!

It's wondrous nice, I find,
And makes life very sociable
To be one of my kind.

I never chase the cats about,
Or bring in bones or dirt,
And if you let me fall quite hard,
It doesn't even hurt.

My little master says to me,
"You're just the nicest pup."
I'm glad he likes me and I know
He'll never give me up.

—Dorothy Whipple Fry

MY LITTLE SUIT.

Dearest Mummie! Oh, Mummie! What do you suppose?
I am sure some strange boy must have had on my clothes!
I could never have left them so dirty last night.
Just you look! They are truly the shockingest sight!

Can you possibly think that my own little clothes
Could have started away by themselves?
Now, who knows
But they got sick and tired of lying right there
So they just got together and jumped off the chair.

Then they went off in swimming, I'm sure as can be,
'Cause they always have wanted to do that with me,
But, mostly, I take all my clothes off, and so
This one time they decided in swimming they'd go.

Then they waded about in the mud after frogs
And they splashed themselves muddy by capsizing logs.
Then they climbed up the pine trees, all covered with dirt.
There was none to get scratched. There was none to get hurt.

Then they scampered about, picking flowers and things,
And went sliding down slopes and went turning hand-springs,
Then, at last, just as dirty as dirty could be,
They jumped back on my chair and lay still as you see.

—Dorothy Whipple Fry

WHY I WAS BORN.

When I was a fairy and lived in a rose,
A long, long time ago,
I used to fly up to the downy clouds
To see the stars aglow.

I used to ride on the backs of birds
And snuggle in their down.
I used to look at the funny things
Below me in the town.

When I was a fairy and lived in a rose,
At morning and at night
I saw the sweet flowers come open and close
Their petals of soft light.

But once I was late, coming home from a ball.
Shut tight was my home in the rose!
So then, without home, there was naught else to do
But just to be born, I suppose.

—Dorothy Whipple Fry

MY SOLDIERS.

My little tin soldiers
had a fight.

They chased all around in the dead of night.

I heard the rattle and dreadful din
On the nursery floor, so I peeked in.
I saw swords flash in the blue moon light.
Those little red coats looked ever so bright
And how they fought, that brave brigade,
To defend their home from a mouses raid!

"Hurrah for my soldiers! Hurrah!" I said,--- Just then someone grabbed me and put me to bed

And told me, next morning, I'd had a bad dream

And musn't eat berries with very rich cream.

I don't call seeing your soldiers fight

A bad dream. I'd call it a wonderful sight.

—Dorothy Whipple Fry

LEARNING LESSONS.

Geography is hard for me,
I cannot learn to spell,
I don't know how to do my sums,—
At least, not very well.

But ask me anything you please
About the fairy queen,
Or of the million fairy folk
That I have ever seen.

I'll tell you how they live in glades
With arabesques and spires
And how they catch the sunbeams there
To make wee fairy fires.

They have the softest thistle down
Upon each little bed,
And each one has a starry
crown
To wear about her head.

I've seen them dance, I've seen them play,
I know just how they fly,
But I can't learn my lessons
well,
No matter how I try!

—Dorothy Whipple Fry

LOST!

Mother has lost her
slipper,
Auntie, her knitting bag,
And sister's pretti-
est party dress
Is nothing but a rag.

Goodness! What
will daddy say
When he finds it out?--
Because my little puppy dog
Has dragged all those about.

I just can never scold him!
He looks at me and tries
To be so sweet and pleasant!
I see it in his eyes.

He's just the dearest puppy!
I hope they will not mind
About the dress and other things
That none of us can find.

—Dorothy Whipple Fry

GOOD AND BAD FAIRIES.

Good fairies ride on white clouds,
Bad fairies ride on black;
Good fairies float, all day-time,
Bad fairies never come back.

Good fairies sail in petals,
Drinking honey dew;
Bad fairies sleep on thistles!
I'd hate that, wouldn't you?

Good fairies ring the night-bells,
Ushering tip-i-toe stars;
Bad fairies stay imprisoned Back of moonlight bars.

—Dorothy Whipple Fry

